A THANKSGIVING REMARK.

There is no surer way of making the Christmas season of goodfellowship a season of needless suffering than by delaying purchases till the last minute. That delay means crowding shops till ventilation is powerless, and forcing clerks and cash girls, shippers and accountants, to a steady drive and unremitting toil which often fills nights as well as days. It means getting better goods. Mowadays he store, large or small, has its thristmas stock in readiness for the buyer weeks before the holiday. If mything, one gets fresher goods by purchasing, them well ahead. The man or woman who makes up and bills the list of necessary gifts early is bestowing a Christmas gift upon some wiknown fellow being. No Thanksgiving remark that occurs to us has as much practical usefulness as this about the proper use of the time between the November holiday and the one that follows in December .-- Colliers.
